

AMES CASE.

Heirs of Ann Harris Get $45,000 From J. P. Ames.

E. Wilder Churchill, as executor of the will of the late Ann Harris, has petitioned the Superior Court to be allowed to compromise the judgment rendered in Mrs. Harris' favor during her lifetime against her brother, Josiah P. Ames. All the parties to the litigation and the devisees under Mrs. Harris' will have signed a stipulation agreeing to accept the terms offered by Ames, subject to the approval of the Court. The suits have been pending in this county since 1897, when Mrs. Harris sued her brother for an accounting, claiming that he had handled her property for years and had misappropriated a great part of it. On January 3, 1899, judgment for $61,362.75 was rendered in her favor. Appeals were taken which are still pending.

Shortly after the termination of the suit Mrs. Harris died, leaving an estate of which the claim against her brother was the principal asset. To offset the judgment he filed a claim against her estate for $15,000 for services rendered her during her lifetime.

By the terms of the compromise, which was filed today, Ames agrees to pay $15,000 to the executor of the late Ann Harris' estate, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent. The balance is to be paid on or before March 1, 1901. The balance is to be represented by four notes of $3,000 each, falling due in one, two, three and four years, and bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. These are to be placed in escrow with the Union Trust Company, which is to secure their payment Ames agrees to deposit with the Trust Company $40,000 worth of the capital stock of the Ames & Harris Company.

The compromise does not include a note for $4,000, drawn in favor of Mrs. Harris by Ames & Harris, which falls due September 30, 1901.

If the terms are approved by the court the attorneys for Mrs. Harris are to receive $10,000.

The stipulation is signed by E. W. Churchill, executor of the estate of Ann Harris, deceased, plaintiff, Josiah P. Ames, defendant, W. F. Tuttle, J. P. Ames, W. H. Anderson, Raymond Benjamin, Bishop & Wheeler, attorneys for plaintiff, Fox & Gray, A. A. Moore, John Garber, Everett Ames, attorneys for defendant, and J. P. Ames, W. F. Tuttle, J. P. Ames, Charles S. Churchill, M. Alice Churchill as guardian, devisees under the will of Ann Harris.

Judge Ellsworth has set the matter for hearing for next Wednesday morning.

COULD NOT GET A BATH AND WANTS DAMAGES.

Charles Twombly wants damages from his landlady, Margaret Brown, because, as he claims, she would not let him take a bath four consecutive weeks. He had been rooming at her house at 619 Nineteenth street since July of last year and paid his rent promptly, so he says, until the water was turned off and then he quit.

The landlady sued him for possession of the rooms. Twombly tells his troubles in his answer and cross-complaint. He says that Mrs. Brown agreed to give him the use of the bathroom, the laundry and the family washboard and promised to replace two broken panes of glass in the window of his front room. He claims that Mrs. Brown broke her agreement.

She did not lock the bathroom door, but she shut off the water and Twombly could not enjoy a bath. He wants $25 damages for this offense.

For being deprived of the privilege of using the family washboard he feels that he deserves $5 as compensation for the harm he has suffered. The damage for the lack of hot water in the laundry room is put at $25. The two broken windows that were not replaced have given Twombly several colds and for this he prays for damages in the sum of $10.

He says that in all the things Mrs. Brown has done she has acted "unlawfully, wilfully and maliciously, and with the purpose and aim of causing defendant herein harm, detriment and damage."

WAS KNOCKED OUT.

Tim Tracer, a peddler, fell down the stairs of a rooming house at 473 Sixth street, last evening, and when he was picked up by the people in the place they thought he was dead. He was carried to the Receiving Hospital and when he was placed on the operating table he showed no apparent signs of life. He had been there for two or three minutes when he opened his eyes, sat up and inquired what all the fuss was about. The doctors examined him carefully and found the only injury he had sustained was an abrasion of the cheek.

Old Man Insane

John Murray, an old man was taken to the ward for the insane at the Receiving Hospital this morning by J. J. Warner, the railroad ticket agent. Murray resides at 1707 Eleventh street and for some months has shown signs of a falling mind. He wanders away from home and gives his relatives considerable worry in looking out for him.

The rush at the drug store still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balm for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Kemp's Balm, the standard remedy, is sold on a guarantee and ever fails to give entire satisfaction. Prices 25c and 50c.

CHANGES IN OUR DISTRICTS.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9.—The Alameda county delegation met twice yesterday and agreed provisionally upon the reapportionment lines of the county under the Custer bill. The delegation has had interminable troubles in cutting out the new Senatorial and new Assembly districts, but a tentative agreement was reached at these conferences.

The new Assemblyman will go to Berkeley. The northern ends of the forty-ninth and fifty-first districts are cut off to make the new district, which thus comprises Berkeley and West Berkeley. Little change except this is made in the Assembly districts. A small portion is to be taken from the fifteenth district, which Jilka represents, to add to Keely's district. The forty-eighth, in order to conform to the new ward lines in Oakland.

The new Senator will be given to the country. The district will comprise Murray, Washington, Eden and probably Brooklyn townships. There will be some changes of the lines of the other Senatorial districts. The Seventh Ward in Oakland will probably be taken from Lukan's district and put in Taylor's district.

GOES TO EUROPE.

Ex-Judge Stephen G. Nye, who has long been a practitioner at the bar of this county, is about to take a well-deserved rest in an extended tour abroad. He will leave on the 21st inst. and accompanied by his daughters will go first to Washington, where he will attend the inauguration of President McKinley. The Chief Executive of the Nation was a classmate of Judge Nye's. From Washington the party will go to Europe, where a tour of the continent will be enjoyed for a number of months.

Child Scalded.

Emeline Mark, a 4-year-old girl, was severely scalded on the right leg this morning by the overturning of a kettle of boiling water. The little one was trying to jump rope in the kitchen of her home at 813 Harrison street when the rope caught the spout of the kettle and pulled it off the stove. The boiling water splashed over the child's clothing and the only place where it reached the flesh was on the right leg. The child was taken to the Receiving Hospital by its mother, where nothing but the best medical attention was applied to the burns.

Judge Will Investigate.

Con Crowley Jr. and Herman Soupaire, charged with being implicated in the mysterious disappearance of lead pipe and other fittings from vacant houses, appeared in the Police Court today. Their cases went over till Monday to give Judge Smith an opportunity to thoroughly investigate.

Photograph Deeds.

A. A. Moore and P. A. Berlin, attorneys for the plaintiff in the suit of C. C. Clay against J. H. Woodward and others, have given notice that they will move for an order of court permitting of the photographing of the deeds involved in the action.

Assigned His Interest.

I. M. Martin has assigned his interest in the estate of his deceased father, William N. Martin, to George W. Kelly subject to a previous assignment to Attorney Charles G. Nagle for $25. The consideration paid by Kelly is stated in the assignment to be $100.

Wants to Be Guardian

Thomas W. De Bussy has petitioned to be appointed guardian of his nephew and niece, John E. Ross, Lucy J. Ross and Annie L. Ross. Both of the parents of the children are dead and they are the sole heirs of their estate.

Davidson's Preliminary.

The preliminary hearing of A. W. Wilson, alias J. A. Davidson, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses, has been set for next Wednesday in the Police Court.

Not a Guest.

F. M. Seely, murderer and suicide, was not, as was reported in a morning paper, a guest of the Crellin Hotel.

KILLS HIS WIFE AND SHOOTS HIMSELF.

disco and then unexpectedly appeared on the scene last night and the tragedy was enacted. The decoy letter, the import of which was not understood by Mrs. Seely's brother, was in part as follows:

"Portland, Ore., Feb. 4, 1901. "Dear Mary and Baby—I just received your kind letter and will hasten to answer it. I will send you $10 today and some more in a few days. "I just got another letter from the administrator of the Donnelly estate, and he says I must come up to Baker City at once. So I am going up tonight, and may have to go on to Salt Lake. That is the reason I cannot let you have more money at present, that is, until I get back, for I don't know how much I will need. I will write you the particulars when I get up there and send you a copy of the papers. No doubt you will have to go there yourself or give some one power of attorney. I will go to Baker tomorrow morning. From what I hear it is a good property. If it proves to be as represented you will be able to furnish your cottage a good share. "I thought you were living in Oakland, but I see you always write from San Francisco. I may not get back for a week or ten days, but will write up the country as soon as I know where we are at. Hoping that things do come out way and I can see my precious ones fixed comfortably again soon, I am your true and loving husband and papa. "F. M. SEELY."

To this letter there is a postscript as follows: "Will send Frankie (a son by a former wife) when I get back. I got him a new suit and now I want to fix Helen out."

Helen is the daughter of the slain father and mother. There is not a single suggestion of craftiness in these lines. On the contrary, they reveal the better side of a devoted husband and loving father. The fact, however, stands forth that Seely, instead of going to Baker City, put his wife off her guard in that respect and came here, with the results already known.

KISS HELEN ALL TO PIECES.

So far as the correspondence between Seely and his wife is concerned, there is scarcely anything to show hard feeling on the part of the husband. Under date of January 21st Seely wrote from Spokane, Wash., to his little daughter, Helen, who is in hiding and whose mother was the murdered woman, Seely's second wife, in the most fatherly manner.

"Papa," he says, "wants to see you awful bad. I would just kiss you to pieces. Frankie (a son by a former marriage) was glad to get your letter and will answer it soon. He was too busy playing yesterday to write. "Will let you see me when I get down here. Grandma Druggan goes down. "When papa gets a little more money you can take much less like Lotta, so when papa comes to see you, you can play for me. Will, my little darling, I am sleepy and will say good-bye. "F. M. SEELY."

A DIVORCE CONTEMPLATED.

The deceased evidently contemplated a divorce, as is shown by the following, addressed to her from Portland under date of January 27th and signed by Mollie Ferguson: "Portland, Jan. 27—I thought I had said something to hurt your feelings, but feel glad that you know what I said. I only spoke as a mother to her child. Now, dear Mary, if you are going to get a divorce, think over it. I did think that you might have it in Portland and show to a few that you could face them, and another thing, Mary, your company was not the best. I did think you did nothing wrong, yourself, but some of your company did, and you know how it is with a woman. I think you are all mistaken about the W. O. W. (a fraternal order). You had the best of the circle on your side and Mrs. Henry had not. She has never been in the circle since you left, and no one asks her to."

WOULDN'T STEAL HIS CHILD.

On January 7th of this year, Seely writes again from Portland, showing the abduction by his wife of their little daughter Helen. The letter in part is as follows: "My dear little Helen: Papa received your dear little letter today and it made me so happy to get it. It was the first letter papa got from his little daughter and I shall always keep it. Papa is awful sorry to hear you are sick and I wish I could be there to hold you in my arms and nurse you back to health. "Don't be afraid, darling, papa will not steal you from your mother. Papa loves you and will for that. I want you to stay with mama and be a good girl when you grow up to be a woman like mama. Papa will come and live with you. Won't that be nice? "PAPA."

LITTLE HELEN A HEROINE.

The allusion in the foregoing letter to the Donnelly estate is explained by a previous letter which, in effect, shows that Mrs. Seely had been made a legatee of the property in question. This letter is dated Spokane, Washington, January 21, 1901. It is in part as follows: "Spokane, Wash., Jan. 21, 1901.—Dear Donnelly: I got a letter from a lawyer in Salt Lake City, Utah, stating that Joe Donnelly was dead and that he had left a will leaving his estate to you and me both equal shares. It consists of mining property in the Sumner district, Oregon, and some real estate in Baker City. He says the mine is a valuable property, and he wants to put the matter in hand for settlement for us. His name is J. H. Henderson. "FRANK."

A HEART-BROKEN MOTHER.

A very pathetic letter is that of the mother of Mrs. Seely, which is dated Portland, January 20 of this year. There is little in it bearing on the tragedy, but it shows the tender solicitude of a mother for her children in trouble and the fact that her closing years are weighted with trouble and woe: "I received your ever welcome letter this morning," she writes, "and was so glad to hear from you. I am glad to hear that Helen is better. Take care of her, so many are dying with diseases now. Tell Helen to be careful and not to be too hasty in what she does. I have not seen her since last Sunday. She said she did not think she would go back to Helen. Of course, her folks think it smart to have them all together. Lotta is not going to school. If Helen should get the right to take Lotta, he must take an officer with him or he will have trouble. Of course, it is too bad for him to be separated from his child. As for her going East, I never heard anything mentioned. I am glad you are with Helen, for my heart aches for him. But tell him for me that where it is all thorns there will be crowns and flowers by and by. Tell him not to worry over Lotta, for she is taken good care of and will come out all right, and he will be happy, and not to worry over Lotta, for if she doesn't want to live with him there are lots of other pebbles on the shore," as Poor Charles said to Agnes.

RESCUES HELEN.

"MAGGIE" RESCUES HELEN. Maggie, who seems to be a friend of the murdered woman and to whom the latter wrote almost at the last moment of her life, refers to the attempt of Seely to abduct his daughter Helen and to how the scheme was frustrated. The letter is dated at Portland, January 2, 1901, and is in part as follows: "I was awful glad you got out of it as well as you did. Say, when he caught hold of Helen, I grabbed him by the coat sleeve and pulled him loose. Oh, he has got it in for me big, but he never showed up any more. Your father was down to see Fred. He wanted me to come down and tell them all about it but I didn't have time. It all went so smoothly there wasn't much to be told. How is little Helen? I will never forget how Maggie, the poor little creature, looked, you may know how I feel. I can't find where my babies are to give them anything for Christmas. "MAGGIE."

A TALE OF DEPRAVITY.

On the table at which Mrs. Seely was seated last night when she was shot was a box of commercial paper which were affixed to a pad. These were taken possession of by Deputy Coroner Henry Quillen. The person for whom the money was lent had been dead for some time. No name was signed to the letter and there is an abrupt termination to it as if the writer was unexpectedly compelled to discontinue the untimely recital.

THE INVESTIGATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—The Legislative Investigating Committee did very little work today. Some unimportant testimony was heard.

SATURDAY FEBRUARY 9, 1901

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN.

There are two days in the present month of patriotic import to every American. The 12th is the anniversary of the birth of the great savior of the Republic, Abraham Lincoln and the 22nd that of Washington, its founder. Without Washington the United States would probably never have taken its place among the powers of the globe, and without Lincoln it would have passed into the shadow of disruption and disunion. Both were great and sublime characters brought forth at the supreme moment to control events. Both were the instruments of Divine Providence or the agents of hidden natural forces carrying out the grand design of creating and building upon this continent one of the greatest nations of the world.

The American is an amalgamation of all peoples and races. He is in himself the embodiment of the principle that natural and racial distinctions are but artificial lines of demarcation. Washington was representative of the democratic theory that gives to the individual the widest liberty of action consistent with the same rights possessed by others. He was the antithesis of the dogma of rank and birth and the principle for which he struggled conferred upon all the right to aspire to the highest walks of life and the opportunity to attain their aspirations. At times he appears to have blindly persevered in performing a task that was clouded in doubt and over which hope did not cast a very happy light. The cause of the revolution he led appears in our day to have been trivial—and in the years that followed the casting of the die at Bunker Hill, Washington at times stood alone in the determination to persevere in the struggle that successfully ended at Yorktown. "All through the dark days of the revolution he appears as the agent of some superior force that was founding in the American wilderness the nucleus of a civilization that was to change the existing conditions on earth.

But the American republic bequeathed by Washington was held together by a rope of sand and the flag of the free was a mockery and a delusion. It shadowed in its folds the slavery of the black man and held no higher place in the constellation of states than the Palmetto flag or the Lone Star banner of Texas. When Lincoln came upon the scene the Republic of Washington was in its death throes and the world anticipated its dissolution. But the Illinois rail-splitter, ungainly, crude and unknown to the world or its ways, developed into a genius of statecraft and unyielding will. From Fort Sumpter to Appomattox he never veered from his course that was to preserve this nation and efface slavery from the land. He was greater than Washington, and yet without Washington there never would have been a Lincoln. Each was correlative to the other and both were essential to the creation and salvation of this great nation.

MRS. NATION'S CRUSADE.

To understand the cause for Mrs. Carrie Nation's appearance in Kansas as a saloon smasher it is only necessary to know that the liquor traffic is illegal in that State. Despite talk about a descent on Chicago, Mrs. Nation's career is likely to be bounded by the border line of Kansas; for, wherever liquor selling is legitimate, people who have invested in the business possess certain rights guaranteed to them under the Constitution, and with those equities not even the Government itself could interfere.

It appears that the so-called "original package law" has been a dead letter for years, and it is as easy to get a mixed drink in Tonika as it is in New York or San Francisco. Under such conditions the saloon men are practically defenseless against the assaults of such people as choose to attack them. That Mrs. Nation is personally a representative of the large class that objects to the sale of alcohol in any quantities is merely an incident in the new crusade. She has been shrewd enough to perceive that she has the saloon-keepers in the door, and she is jamming them hard, while all they can do is equal. The law officers cannot help them. They may arrest Mrs. Nation for disturbing the peace, but this will not restore shattered crockery, nor will it refill emptied hogsheds, and for this loss the barkeepers have no recourse.

The notoriety for Kansas may be what that State desires, but to a cultured community it would be galling. Still, it teaches a needed lesson to other parts of America, and that is laws ought not to be adopted unless they are to be enforced, and if they are so foreign to public sentiment that they cannot be maintained by those whose duty it is to carry them into execution, then they ought not to encumber the statute books. Sumptuary enactments are in nearly every instance bad, and always are dangerous.

Queen Wilhelmina's husband is said to be extremely shy and that despite all efforts to eradicate this trait it remains firmly rooted in his composition. If he really wants to get rid of it, let him come over here and pass a few months practicing with some of our first-class poker players—they will soon break him of the habit.

Judging by the way the Chinese are scoring point after point in the modification of the demands of the allies it is not improbable that the wily heathen diplomats will ultimately completely eviscerate the Commissioners and sign them up to an agreement whereby, instead of receiving indemnity, the foreign nations will admit indebtedness to the Celestials.

Canada is said to have the fighting crabs. It is so cold up that way that the people cannot be blamed for wanting to put on the gloves.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Sure things are more or less uncertain.

"Not guilty" isn't necessarily an innocent remark.

Stimulants seldom hurt a man—if he leaves them alone.

"O LIFE, O BEYOND!"

Strange—strange, O mortal life.

The perverse gifts I have came to me from you!

From childhood I wanted all good things:

You gave me few.

You gave me faith in One

Divine—above our own imperious might.

O mortal life, while I but wanted you

And your delight.

I wanted dancing feet,

And flowery, grassy paths by laughing streams:

You gave me lottering steps, and eyes all blurred

With tears and dreams.

I wanted love—and, lo!

As though in mockery, you gave me loss.

O'erburdened sore, I wanted rest, you gave

The heavier cross.

I wanted one poor hut

For mine own home, to creep away into;

You gave me only lonelier desert lands

To journey through.

Now at the last verge

Of barren age, I stumble, reel and fling

Me down, with strength all spent and heart athirst

And famishing.

Yea, now, Life deals me death—

Your worst—your vaunted worst! * * * across my breast

With numb and fumbling hands I find me for

The best.

KITCHENER CALLS FOR GENERALS.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—A dispatch to The Tribune from London says:

In the absence of anything like satisfactory intelligence from South Africa as to the development of General Kitchener's plan of campaign, rumors at the service clubs are more plentiful than ever. The latest one, to the effect that General Kitchener is to be superseded by General Sir Evelyn Wood, received great publicity yesterday afternoon. Apparently it was based on the knowledge that General Kitchener has, of late, been urging the dispatch of additional generals to assist him, as well as more troops to carry out his operations. General Wood, it is understood, has expressed a willingness to serve under General Kitchener, but any notion of superseding the present commander-in-chief is, of course, absurd.

When the war broke out in October, 1899, the chief command of the British forces would have been given to General Wood had it not been for the fact that his deafness practically disqualified him for such an important position. The Adjutant-General is as deaf now as he was then.

WU DECLINES TO MEET GEN. OTIS.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—A special to The World from Washington says:

The Chinese Minister, Wu Ting Fang, is not inclined to discuss the publication of his letter to the Geneva Club, declining its invitation to meet General Elwell S. Otis at a formal dinner in his honor. He said: "I have nothing to explain in this matter. The gentlemen composing the Geneva Club invited me to dinner to meet General Otis. My sentiments as to the action of this distinguished military commander in excluding the Chinese from traditional rights are matters of record, officially and personally. More than a year ago I very frankly defined my position for the public benefit at the invitation of press correspondents. My views have not changed, and as a gentleman dealing frankly with my friends, I declined the invitation for the good and sufficient reasons expressed."

EXCITING WEEK IN WALL STREET.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Great combinations and rumors of combinations have kept the Wall street stock market in a state of great speculative excitement all the week. The volume of dealings has approached near the record, both in stocks and bonds. Fluctuations in prices have been very violent, the sudden bulges inviting frequent heavy profit taking. The market has been sensational in the extreme sensitivity to rumors of all kinds and has kept the speculative sentiment very nervous. But the glamor of the rumored "billion dollar steel trust" and the absorption of the Southern Pacific by the Union Pacific have kept up their speculative enthusiasm and the continued ease of the money market with the cessation of gold exports has offered no check.

PRESIDENT HAYS IN NEW YORK.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—President Charles M. Hays of the Southern Pacific Company arrived here last evening and will hold a conference today, it is said, with the Morgan-Harriman interests. President Hays of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Company is expected here today from San Francisco, where important traffic matters with the Southern Pacific Company are said to have been arranged.

PASTOR AFTER NEW CONVERTS.

Will Answer All Questions Put in His Box.

The following circular has been issued:

Dear Sir and Friend: Believing that the church holds a great deal for men, and that it is not altogether their own fault that many men are not more interested in the church, the pastor of Chester street has arranged to preach a series of sermons of especial interest to intelligent men with a view to securing from them sympathetic hearing for the claims of Christianity.

Perhaps you are a regular attendant of some church; if so, the pastor of Chester street has a desire to get you to leave and attend his church. His aim is to enlist the interest of those not affiliated with any church.

The general theme in the series of sermons is "Christianity and Modern Thought." The topics and dates are as follows:

Feb. 10—A Reasonable Religion vs. Free Thinking.

Feb. 17—Divine Revelation and Modern Science.

Feb. 24—The Bible Doctrine of Sin in the Light of Modern Science.

March 3—The New Birth From a Scientific View-point.

March 10—Immortality and Science.

March 17—Question Drawer.

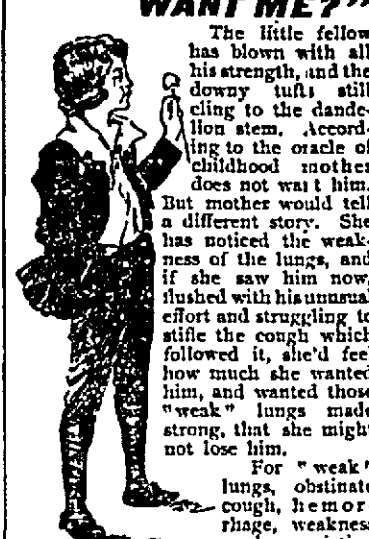

If you have any questions pertaining to the matters discussed you are invited to put them in writing, sign your name and place in one of the pastor's boxes at the church. Your name will not be disclosed. It is solely for the guidance of the pastor. The questions will be answered March 17th in place of the sermon.

You will be cordially welcomed to any of the services of the church, but especially on Sunday evenings. Come and bring your friends with you.

Very cordially,
M. H. ALEXANDER,
Pastor.

"DOES MOTHER WANT ME?"

There is no medicine so healing and so strengthening as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is especially valuable for children, building up weak bodies with sound, healthy flesh. It is entirely free from alcohol and narcotics.

"Winter before this, my eldest boy (who is now nearly five years old), had a terrible cough; he had it the whole winter and all summer," writes J. M. Barr, Dr. of Carmichael, Cal. "Physicians did him no good and nothing my wife and I could do did him any good. After your 'Discovery' had cured my cough, I wrote you, when everything else failed I wrote you to bring him back from the country, and he came home and after giving him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a time, he is entirely recovered."

WILL DEDICATE CHINESE MISSIONS.

The new Chinese Mission Church, erected at the instance of the Chinese Baptist Mission of this city on Webster street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, will be dedicated on Chinese New Year's Day.

The structure is neat in design and well appointed in every particular. The chapel with auditorium covers a space of 27x35 feet, with a superintendent's room adjoining and a kitchen in the rear.

The Chinese Baptist Mission of Oakland was established in 1876 by the American Baptist Home Mission Society of New York, and Mrs. J. H. Bradley, wife of the doctor of that name, took charge. For eighteen years she toiled among these people, by whom she was held in high esteem. Death called her away and Mrs. L. E. Baker succeeded her. Later the Rev. L. E. Baker, who is present in pastor of a Baptist church in Rochester, N. Y., took charge. Mrs. Annand M. Hall of 264 Ninth street, the present superintendent, assumed that office in 1896. She has been assisted in her work by volunteer teachers from the First Baptist Church.

About a year ago a fund for the erection of the church was started. Each member of the mission gave one month's wages; the San Francisco mission also helped. The Chinese Consul gave a sum and Chinese merchants also contributed, until over $2,000 was raised. About $1,000 of this amount came solely from Chinese. With the latter sum a lot was purchased and further collections were made for the building, which will cost with the furnishings $12,000.

In connection with the mission the Chinese have also organized a Y. M. C. A. under the leadership of Lum Leung. The secretary is Wong Bow.

The McNear wedding was very hurried and unexpected at the last. No preparations were made until the last moment, but all went pleasantly at the end. A CAUSE OF HEADACHE.

One Very Common Cause, Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom; derangement of the stomach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain or ill fitting glasses all produce headaches and it is not always possible to locate the organ which is at fault. The cure of obstinate headaches would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of such headaches and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the headache.

There is at present no treatment for catarrh so convenient and effective as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new internal remedy, in tablet form, composed of antiseptic, high catalytic, Guaiacol and Blood Root which act upon the blood and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural channels.

Corra Alusley, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headache and endorses Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered daily from severe frontal headache and pain in and back of the eyes, at times so intensely as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh more or less for years, but never thought it was the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the case because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure and after using a few fifty cent boxes which I procured from my druggists I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package under the guarantee of the proprietors that they contain absolutely no cocaine (found in so many catarrh cures) no opium (so common in cheap cough cures) nor any harmful drugs. They contain simply the wholesome antiseptics necessary to destroy and drive from the system the germs of catarrhal disease.

Help for Weak Women

Thousands of women endure the tortures of living death and at last succumb to the disease peculiar to their sex without knowing of the life and health which is theirs if they use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, an ever faithful remedy that cures where all others fail.

Mrs. Grace Campbell, of 861 Logan Street, Grand Rapids, Michigan, relates the following story:

"The birth of my first child in a deplorable condition. My system was broken down and I suffered from general debility. I was exceedingly nervous and rheumatism often troubled me. My appetite failed me and the most delicate and inviting food failed to tempt me. I was thin and pale, and had neither energy nor ambition. My case had been growing steadily worse for two years. I had used several so-called remedies but found no curative quality in them.

"In the summer of 1894, I was visiting my grandmother in Ludington, Mich., and there learned of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I tried the pills and had not finished one box before I felt much better. I continued them through the year and the result was a perfect cure. I am no longer nervous, nervous and have more than regained my lost flesh. I certainly recommend the pills to all who need them and their results have always been beneficial."

DEAFNESS OF QUEEN ALEXANDRA

May Soon Be Obligated to Use an Ear
Trumpet.

Regrets That She Could Not Remain Princess of Wales.

(Copyrighted by Associated Press.)
LONDON, Feb. 9.—In all the homage paid to King Edward, Queen Alexandra is little heard of. "Proclamation by the King," in big, black type, parades itself curiously on the London boardings, and the young blood of England is insensibly fired by the idea that a manly, almost marital, ruler once more controls their destinies. There exists something of that feeling with which the London apprentices hailed the accession of the late Edward, so there is little wonder that Queen Alexandra, for the present, comes in for but a small part of this virile enthusiasm.

A diplomat thoroughly conversant with court details informed a representative of the Associated Press that her Majesty assumes her increased responsibilities with a feeling almost akin to regret. "I am growing so old," she said the other day, "that I almost feel unable to face the arduous duties before me."

THE QUEEN'S DEAFNESS.
The Queen's appearance before her words. It is her growing deafness which is likely to prove her greatest handicap. Before long, it is feared, she will have to use an ear trumpet. In other ways she is not so strong as formerly. The rumor that King Edward is suffering from cancer (promptly denied by Sir Felix Semon, physician for diseases of the throat to the national hospital for epilepsy and paralysis, through the Associated Press) probably arose from the fact that Sir Felix Semon is attending Queen Alexandra for sore throat, to which recently she has been extremely susceptible, though there are no traces of serious disease. She would, the Associated Press informant says, be only too glad if destiny had permitted her to finish her days in England as Princess of Wales, the greater freedom and simplicity of the minor title being much preferable to this woman, who, by her kindness and goodness, has endeared herself to her adopted people. Since the death of Queen Victoria, Queen Alexandra has frequently expressed herself as determined to carry out as far as possible those old time public and private customs which made the former rulers of the court so different from any others in Europe. According to report, King Edward and Queen Alexandra will visit the Dowager Empress Frederick at Copenhagen, with the King of Denmark. But if this program is carried out it will be done in the quietest way.

KING'S CORONATION.
Speculation is rife as to the date of King Edward's coronation, some people maintaining that it will occur as early as September. But probably the year of court mourning will be strictly observed, the coronation not occurring until February, or later, in 1902.

The curious fact of the King's birthday coinciding with Lord Mayor's day, November 9th, may cause an alteration in the date of one or the other of these celebrations in the immediate future.

King Edward's time is busily taken up. The most important event, of course, is the opening of Parliament (February 14th) which, next to the coronation, is likely to be the most brilliant spectacle of his reign. Princesses and others are clamoring for places in the House of Lords, whose seating capacity is so limited that only a few can hope to be successful. Whenever the King has previously appeared in the upper houses it was as an attentive auditor of the debates, sitting on the ordinary benches. The only time he voted was in favor of legalizing the marriage of a deceased wife's sister, which he has consistently but futilely supported.

Among the other functions which are shortly to be performed by the King is the reception of a loyal address from the corporations of the three capitals of the United Kingdom, which will be presented at Buckingham Palace.

HOPE FOR MRS. MAYBRICK.
Every prison in the United Kingdom is in a state of keen expectation for the inmates hope the King will signalize his accession by bestowing some pardons. The friends of Mrs. Florence Maybrick are taking new heart.

By giving up the Duchy of Cornwall to his son, King Edward sacrificed an income of 1,000 pounds a week, though he now receives what is estimated to be about 1,000 pounds a day.

Queen Victoria has not been dead a fortnight, yet advertisements are appearing in the papers advising the public to guard themselves against possible loss by insuring against the death of the King. It is said the insurance companies are rapidly approaching the limit of the risk they will accept on King Edward's life.

One of the redeeming features of what was naturally a dull week, socially, was a dinner given by Sir Richard Wyatt, the government parliamentary agent, in honor of his American son-in-law, J. A. Barratt, who has just been admitted to the English bar. Mr. Barratt was formerly a member of the New York bar. Among those present were Joseph H. Choate, the United

TREBELLI REFUSED TO BE A QUEEN.

Famous Singer Had Amusing
Experience in New Zealand.

MLLE. ANTOINETTE TREBELLI

Mlle. Antoinette Trebelli returned from her triumphant Australasian tour a year ago, rich in anecdote and amusing experience. One of the most ludicrous incidents of her career took place while she was singing to crowded and enthusiastic audiences in Napier, in the north island of New Zealand.

Among the regular attendants at her concerts was a handsome young Maori king of herculean proportions and superb physique, who dressed in the most approved European fashion and granted approval at the end of every solo. On returning to her hotel one evening she found herself awaited by a half-caste Maori, who in broken English informed her that his chief or king was desirous of having a koro (talk) with the white woman (white woman), and of rubbing noses with her.

Mlle. Trebelli was naturally indignant, but when it was explained to her that rubbing noses among the Maoris was equivalent to our custom of shaking hands, she saw the humor of the situation and smilingly declined.

The next evening while singing she heard loud shouts of "Tangi" (offering), and was horrified to behold her kindly admirer stalk up the center aisle followed by six stalwart members of his tribe, clothed in mats. In his right hand the young king held a long stick from which was suspended by a string a roll of bank bills, or bank notes, as they call them out there. The follower immediately behind him carried a squawling pig, while the burden of the other vessels consisted of chickens, fruit, potatoes, etc.

The monarch and his followers gravely deposited their goods on the platform, then receded a pace. Suddenly the young sovereign stretched out his arms toward Mlle. Trebelli, and in pathetic tones exclaimed "Heremai, ki kome tamarii" (Come here, come here, little love).

Most of the audience were familiar with the language, and the result was States Ambassador; William Court Gully, Speaker of the House of Commons; Lord Coleridge, H. H. Asquith, the former Home Secretary; Sir John Gurn, Sir William Grantham, and other notable men. Out of compliment to the New York bar the legal authorities took off six months of Mr. Barratt's term of probation.

ADMIRAL GERMAN NAVY.
As a result of the visit to Corcor, to attend the naval parade of the German war vessels, H. W. Wilson, honorary editor of the Navy League Journal, is writing a series of articles, declaring that the personnel and management of the German navy are superior in many points to the British. His articles are creating no little comment, especially his exposure of the fact that the executive officers of British ships have to dip into their own pockets to buy paint. The military authorities are rather pleased at this diversion of public criticism of their branch of the service. It is believed the navy will soon undergo a public overhauling, somewhat similar to that inflicted on the army. Mr. Wilson said to a representative of the Associated Press:

WARNS AMERICANS.
"I am a great admirer of the American navy. I believe that, in some ways, it is the best in the world. But if you ever get up against Germany you will have your hands very full. Their state of discipline would not be bettered."

Engineering comments lengthily on the report of the Rear Admiral George W. Melville, chief of the bureau of steam navigation, U. S. N., on naval boilers, and hopes his arguments will not be utilized by the British admiralty, declaring that the water tube boilers being placed in American ships today will be outclassed long before shrieks of laughter. Mlle. Trebelli fled from the stage, and after great difficulty the chief and his followers were removed.

Nor was the end yet. That night the half-caste Maori attendant brought to the singer a gorgeous mat of pheasant feathers, with the request that she become the wife of his lord. He further vouchsafed the information that his Kingship had already five wives, all of whom should be servants to the white woman (white woman). It grieved Mlle. Trebelli to be obliged to decline the beautiful mat, but as the chief went with it, she did so.

Thus it was that she refused to become the wife of a half-caste Maori, a monarch, richer than nine-tenths of the petty European potentates. His Majesty took his refusal to heart, and sought solace in liquor. After painting the town a most brilliant vermilion, he returned to his "whare," where he beat his five wives in the most savage manner, nearly killing one, and at the time of Mlle. Trebelli's departure he was confined in the City Prison, awaiting trial on a charge of aggravated assault.

Trebelli will give a concert at the First Unitarian Church in this city on the evening of February 14th. The program is as follows:

(a) The Gnomes.....Pergolesi
(b) Ma. Rendu Pur.....Bellini
(c) Isolde.....Mozart

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan of New York is lending his pictures, shown in Paris, to the new Whitechapel art gallery, to be opened March 1st.

There is much conjecture in sporting circles as to the effect King Edward's former racing connection with Tod Sloan will have on the latter's reinstatement on the turf. The general belief is that it will lead to his reinstatement in England after the recent races.

EXPLAINS OGDEN'S DECISION

E. C. Sessions Wants the Litigation to Come to an End.

Gives Reasons for Having Many of the Streets Closed.

Editor Tribune: The decision of Judge Ogden in the retrial of the portion of the contention relating to streets opened prior to 1868 is probably good law, and it is certainly good policy. If it had been decided that the action of the city many years ago proposing to open all streets south of First street to deep water had been declared to be an effective dedication, it would have ruined a large portion of the marsh and tide lands below First street for the only purposes for which it is valuable and available, that of manufacturing.

Such enterprises as are now located there and which we should hope to locate there, cannot be accommodated upon small blocks of land, but require compact ownerships in many instances often or fifteen acres. As it is now, the plan of streets below First street will be made to suit the requirements of occupants, and probably will not exceed in number one-half of those above First street, where small occupancies and residences can be accommodated.

The grant of the water front of Oakland was made forty-eight years ago, and much or most of the time since has been a constant source of legal and political contention, greatly to the detriment of the city, by preventing the transfer and improvement of these lands for manufacturing, shipping and commercial enterprises, and thus restricting and delaying the growth and development of the city in many ways.

It has been the desire of all public-spirited citizens that this litigation should be pressed to final conclusions as speedily as possible in order that titles might become definitely settled, and so that large iron, wood working, ship building, warehousing, lumber, wheat, coal, produce and general merchandise shipping and manufacturing of all kinds, for which we have great natural and unexcelled advantages to offer, might no longer be prevented from locating here by reason of the clouded titles to lands, as has been the case heretofore for years past.

The main issues in this contention seem to have been definitely and equitably determined by the Supreme Court of the State, conceding the right of private ownership to a portion of the harbor and thus stimulating and permitting improvements which would not be made under municipal control, and leaving a portion of the harbor in state ownership, preventing monopoly. These lands are now being taken up quite rapidly for desirable enterprises, and public interest is being thus subserved and protected.

In the determination of the law, equity, and public policy, in a subject of so great magnitude, and such varied and complicated detail, as is that of navigable waters and water front, there are many points, collateral and side issues, of greater or less importance, and which have never been adjudicated upon by the courts.

In the final determination and definite establishment by statute and precedent of these collateral issues, sufficient to make them the law of the land, much litigation might be created and kept alive for years, but I do not think that it is the sentiment or desire of this community that such litigation by the city should be continued indefinitely, in a manner or to an extent that shall prevent or delay, by clouding of titles, the passing of these lands into the hands of parties who have a right to them, which will furnish employment for large numbers of persons.

I recognize, however, the fact that there are some people who allow their prejudices, and can never forget old grievances, to influence their judgment in the present case. They are not to be influenced by their prejudices, and can never forget old grievances, to influence their judgment in the present case. They are not to be influenced by their prejudices, and can never forget old grievances, to influence their judgment in the present case.

awakening of local pride; better business methods and a greater degree of unanimity in the management of our affairs, and a determination on the part of public spirited citizens to pull together by well directed efforts, for the common good of our city.

It is time that we should wake up, quit quarreling and get ready to be somebody. We can if we try.

E. C. SESSIONS.

John Allen on Free Silver.
Congressman Allen of Mississippi is not one of those who hold back a good story for relationship's sake. He has an illustration of the rural Mississippi estimate of the free silver issue.

In the campaign a Blyan spellbinder met a Mississippi farmer who was driving a goat which was drawing a barrel of water.

"What's that goat worth?" asked the spellbinder.

"Two dollars," said the other. "Under free silver that goat would bring $4," rejoined the spellbinder.

"Yea," drawled the farmer, "and I reckon if I had this barrel of water in shed it would bring $1,000 easy."

RACING WAR IS NOW ON.

Tanforan People Declare War on the Oakland Track.

Thos. H. Williams, Jr.
Is Ready for the Battle.

"There will be a special mile race on Wednesday at Tanforan between Arc-Uclat, with Sloan up, and Canmore, with Burns up, for $1,000."

The above announcement, posted on the bulletin board after the third race at Tanforan yesterday, created great excitement among racing men and race-goers. All the afternoon, and in fact for a week past, there had been talk of a clash between Tanforan and Oakland, but no official confirmation of the stories could be obtained. The announcement attracted widespread attention and a cheer went up from the crowd. It was the first gun of what promises to be a memorable race-track war. The horsemen were especially jubilant, as they expect to reap the greatest benefit out of the present racing entanglement, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

Rightly or wrongly, the San Francisco Jockey Club claimed that the California Jockey Club was instrumental in having the San Mateo ordinance framed in order that Oakland could secure the lion's share of the racing game. This charge was made in the public press and was never denied by President Williams or any one connected with the California Jockey Club. The feeling between the rival associations has been growing more bitter with each succeeding day, but the throwing down of the gauntlet by the San Francisco Jockey Club came as a surprise, notwithstanding all the rumors that have been floating around. The San Francisco Jockey Club could not have selected a more opportune time to make war. The next meeting at Oakland is presently the big one of the entire season. The $10,000 Burns handicap is down for decision next Saturday, and other big events are scheduled.

"We will continue to race right along at Tanforan Park," said Prince Poniatowski yesterday. "This trouble is not one of our making, and it will now resolve itself into a question as to which association is prepared to lose the most money. We are prepared for the coming conflict."

Prince Poniatowski was very calm when discussing the latest phase of the proposed race-track war. He had evidently planned his program with great deliberation.

The San Francisco Jockey Club proposed to give the Oakland track a proposition to give the San Francisco Jockey Club a fund of $300,000 to spend in the coming conflict. Horsemen are lying low just at present, and are very silent about their proposed plans but the average owner and horseman are now more outspoken. Sloan and Henry being barred at the Oakland track, have an easy choice, Burns and O'Connor will also ride at Tanforan, but the latter track has the advantage over Oakland in regard to the jockeys throughout the entire season.

Late last night the San Francisco Jockey Club issued an edict that horses racing at Oakland will be barred at Tanforan.

President Williams held a consultation with several of his advisers last evening and this is what he had to say subsequently:

"I have had no official notice that the Tanforan Association intends to keep on racing," he said, "but I am informed that it made such an announcement today. This intelligence was a great surprise to me."

"According to a contract made a year ago between the Pacific Coast Jockey Club and the Western Turf Association, they controlling Ingleide and Tanforan on the one side, and the Oakland Club on the other, it was agreed that racing should be held every alternate two weeks, either at Tanforan or Ingleide, and Oakland during the season between November 1 and May 1 of each year. This contract was ratified by the boards of directors of each association and the original is now filed with Secretary Hopper of the Turf Congress."

"The contract is still in force. If the Tanforan Association violates it by having a single race during any of the time belonging in our track, we will race every day, excepting Sunday, until the end of the season."

"We hold that, although Tanforan and Ingleide have since been leased, they are subject to this agreement."

"So long as the Tanforan Association is in good standing and at perfect liberty to race wherever it suits them best, so far as we are concerned. We will take no action of any kind against any one who wishes to race one day at Tanforan and the next day at Oakland. We will try to offer inducements equal, if not superior, to those offered at Tanforan."

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock, in Maple Hall, Palace Hotel, Thomas H. Williams, Jr. will address the owners, bookmakers, trainers and riders on the situation, and all are invited to be present.

LEOPOLD GODOWSKY

Leopold Godowsky will give three piano recitals at Sherman & Clay's Hall, San Francisco, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Godowsky is a famous pianist and has given concerts all over the world. Many Oakland people will attend the concert.

THE BOY STOOD

On the burning deck, shelling peanuts by the peak; his hat blew off and struck a wreck upon which was written, "12, 13, 14, 15, and 16 Thirteenth Street, Oakland, does sanitary plumbing and carries the finest line of household goods in the city of the Athens, and to make your home comfortable have him to put in your house hot air or hot water appliances, and you won't have the grip."
